

HOME TRENDS

Baskets From Africa

Carried away

Whether you're off to San Francisco's mobbed Ferry Plaza Farmers Market (Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; www.ferrybuildingmarketplace.com/farmers\_market.php) or to your quiet plot at the community garden, you'll need something to carry those hand-picked organic and artisanal goodies. While a reused grocery bag is good, these sturdy market bags are definitely more stylish.

— Michelle Devera, mdevera@sfchronicle.com

Baskets From Africa

Out of Africa: Craftsmen in Africa weave these baskets by hand — each one is unique. The leather-reinforced handles let you load up the Ghana Golba Market baskets (8 inches across, $16.50; 15 inches—pictured above— $36.50 ). The Veta vera grass basket can be soaked in water and reshaped. www.basketsfromafrica.com.

Baskets From Africa

Handy: The Gambibgo Shopper, also from Baskets From Africa, has handles that fit comfortably on your shoulder. The basket is flexible yet sturdy — the perfect go-everywhere bag. $59. www.basketsfromafrica.com.